SHARD

a teeny tiny zine
of teeny tiny things (to scale)

"yesterday I was thinking about the whole idea of genius and creative people and the notion that if you create some magical art, somehow that exempts you from having to pay attention to the small things."

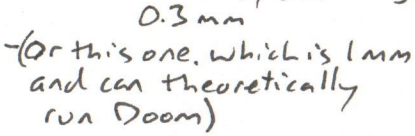
-bell hooks

Thomas Vose CC-BY-NC 12/21/23
tnvose@hotmail.com

Bird - the bee hummingbird



Computer →
Developed by the University of Michigan, 0.3 mm

-(Or this one, which is 1mm, and can theoretically run Doom)

-Book. Well, "codex".

commercial model train scale - T-gauge:

Working gun - C15T (Swiss)

Bone - the stapes, in your inner ear.

Fish (debated) - the stout Infantfish of the Great Barrier Reef.

- Currently purchasable phone - the LBSTAR BM103.

Fruit - the watermeal (.25 mm)

Deck of cards

Mammal - the bumblebee bat.

Guitar, boat, book (text), stop-motion film - all are no scale and fit with room to spare here.

Octopus - the wolf. Octopus

- Coin in current use - Swiss 10-cent. me

- Paper money in current use - Swiss 5-franc note.

- Dice (0.3 mm)

Dog. "Pearl" - a chihuahua (Allgrown)

Robot - "Perky the Crab" of Northwestern University (1.5 mm)

- Chess set - made with 1mm tall pieces.